Peer Coaching Can Help

By definition, peer coaching is a type of helping relationship where two people of similar status work together to address a task or problem.

Our Peer coaches provide non-clinical peer support to help engage, educate, and support you on your recovery journey. Often, peer coaches have been on their own recovery path, so they understand the stress and anxiety of what you are going through.

● We can help you wherever you are in your recovery journey.

Virtual peer coaching offers the power to choose comfortable, private locations for support. You can speak to your peer coaches within the privacy of your own home and receive convenient and discreet support.

Peer coaching provides guidance, no matter where you are in the recovery journey, and mobile devices offer the flexibility of speaking with a peer coach around your schedule.

What is the difference between a peer coach and a therapist?

PEER COACHING DIFFERS FROM THERAPY IN THE FOLLOWING WAYS:

THERAPY

Therapy is focused on diagnosis, assessment and treatment planning.

Therapy is focused on exploring and resolving past core issues.

Therapy emphasizes academic training and supervision as the main qualifying credentials.

Therapy tends to happen within a clearly defined time frame or session held in a licensed clinic or private office.

PEER COACHING

Peer coaching is focused on connection and unconditional support NOT assessment.

Peer coaching is focused on the “here and now”, providing pragmatic solutions to everyday problems.

Peer coaching emphasizes lived experience and professional peer training as the main qualifying credentials.

Peer coaching is more flexible and delivered in the moment via all available platforms (phone, face to face, texting etc...)

Peer coaching offers the power of choice in a safe space, with caring and experienced peers who understand what you're going through and can provide support without judgment or criticism.

Our peer coaches are available to support anyone interested in any level of recovery and are nationally certified, NAADAC credentialed, and specially trained in Assertive Community Engagement (ACE) principles by the nation's leading recovery support experts.
